The Majiltons are admirable, and infuse such a degree of life, animation and spirit into their parts as to draw from the audience continued laughter and applause. Their acting and dancing are alike received with universal praise and commendation. One of the enjoyable features of the evening's entertainment is an original and sparkling medley overture, entitled Farrago, introducing solos for violin, flute, cornet and trombone, arranged expressly for the Majiltons by Mr.

Fred Perkins.

Miss Patterson's Reading. Miss Jeannie Patterson has reason to ongratulate herself uson the reception iven her last evening, upon the occasion of per first appearance in this city as a public reader, as her audience was composed of the best people in Nashville, and this audience she carried captive by her winning appearance, her refined manners, her carefully trained voice and her remarkable abilities as an elocutionist.

She was introduced by Dr. J. B. Lindsley, President of the Robertson Association, as a brave young lady of the Sunny South, who was nobly striving in aid of those near and dear to her. He then left the stage, and the audience saw standing before them of the Union and American at 48 Church a lady about nineteen or twenty years of Junearly age, with full dark eyes, black hair, slightly ind waving in front, parted smoothly over an intellectual brow. She was perfectly cool and self-possessed in the presence of that crowded hall, and for a moment stood idly urning the leaves of the book containing her selections, as it lay on the stand beside her, while she quietly looked out upon the hundreds of upturned faces before her.

Why Mr. and Mrs. Hunting Left the "Great Romn's Hippodrome"-A Professional's Ideas of the Circus Busi-

Yesterday afternoon a Union AND AMERICAN man met, at Linck's Hotel, Mr. obert Hunting and wife, (the latter apearing on the bills as M'lle Clarice), whose vonderful feats on "the flying trapeze" at Suckley's Hippodrome excited such an inerest during the performances given here e first of the week. Mr. Hunting is of less than medium height, but of compact build, and wonderful strength and agility. his wife being quite as tall as he is, and o slight, girlish build, and as modest and rened looking as any lady in Mashville the appears to be about twenty-three years fage, and has been married six years. "How is the Hippodrome flourishing? nquired the reporter.

"Not very well, I'm afraid," said Mr. Hunting, "we've left it,"
"How's that?" "Well, you see they've got a concert raveling with the show, and DeHaven

I told DeHaven—that's the nanager, and he's one-third owner of the Hipposirome-that I wasn't willing for my wife to do anything of the sort, and he said: 'Well, if she can't go in the concert we'll have to get somebody that will,' and said I, 'all right,' pay me the money due us and we'll quit;' and that afternoon they paid us off, four hundred dollars and some thing, and last night we got aboard the rain and here we are. Look here; if you're going to put anything in the paper about this, I wish you'd chuck in a good word for old Harry Buckley. He's treated is as if we were his children, and when he old us good-bye last night, the old man Denot, 49 North College street, ried like a child.
